House of La Warr.

The first of this family upon record,

JOHN LA WARR, had a ratification, in the 8th of JOHN, of a grant which that king had made, prior to his coming to the throne, of the lordship of Bristolton (a member of the honour of Gloucester), to hold by the service of half a knight's fee. He d. in six years afterwards, and was s. by his son,

JORDAN LA WARR, who then paid two hundred pounds for livery of his lands. This feudal lord was in arms against King JOHN, but on paying a fine, with two palfreys, was re-admitted into favour. Nevertheless, we find him again fighting under the baronial standard, and again making his peace after the battle of Evesham. He was s. by

JOHN LA WARR, who was sheriff of Herefordshire in the 3rd EDWARD I., and was s. by

ROGER LA WARR, who in the reigns of EDWARD I. and EDWARD II., having had military summonses to attend the king in the wars of France, and being actively engaged in those as well as the Scottish wars, was summoned to parliament, as a BARON, from 6 Feb. 1299, to 16 June, 1311. His lordship m. Clarice, dau. and co-heir of John de Tregoz, Baron Tregoz; and dying about 1320, was s. by his son,

JOHN LA WARR, 2nd Baron, summoned to parliament from 26 Aug. 1307, to 26 Feb. 1347. This nobleman, in the 25 EDWARD I., his father still living, was in the expedition then made into Flanders, and the next year he was in the wars of Scotland. In the 29th of the same reign, on the decease of his mother, Clarice, he inherited a moiety of the property of his grandfather, Lord Tregoz (to which barony he was co-heir, and for an account of which see BURKE'S Dormant and Extinct Peerage); viz., Ewyas-Harold, co. Hereford; Alyngton, Wilts; and other lands in the cos. of Somerset, Salop, and Northampton. After this, during the remainder of the reign of EDWARD I., he was constantly engaged in the wars of Scotland, and was made a knight of the Bath. In the 14th EDWARD III., his lordship was in the great sea-fight off Sluy; in the 16th, he was in the expedition to France, assisting at the siege of Nantes; and in the 20th, he was in the van of the BLACK PRINCE at the glorious battle of CRECY. His lordship m. Joan, sister and heir of Thomas de Gresley, Baron Gresley, whose chief seat was at Manchester, co. Lancaster; by which lady he acquired the great possessions of the Gresleys, and had,

Sir John, who d. before 1345, leaving by his wife, Margaret, dau. of Robert Holland,

1. ROGER, who s. his grandfather as 3rd baron.
2. John (Sir), of Bokampton, in Berks, which he held by sergeantry, in keeping the king's dogs, called harriers, when he should come into those parts. Sir John was in the wars of Brittany; and dying in the 34th EDWARD III. s.p., left his estates to his brother.

1. Catherine, m. Sir Warine Latimer, Lord Latimer of Braybrooke, and had issue.

His lordship d. in 1347, and was s. by his grandson,

SIR ROGER LA WARR, 3rd Baron; summoned to parliament from 14 Aug. 1362, to 1 June, 1363. This nobleman, in the 30th EDWARD III., shared in the glory of Poictiers, wherein the French King with the Dauphin were made prisoners. Touching the capture of the King of France, it is recorded that much contention took place, as he defended himself with great valour; and the pressure upon him becoming great, such as knew him cried out, "Sir, surrender, or you are dead"; whereupon he yielded, according to Froissart, to Sir Dennis Morbeck, a knight of Artois, in the English service; but being forced from that captain, more than ten knights and esquires claimed the honour of taking the Royal prisoner. Amongst these, the pretensions of Sir Roger La Warr and Sir John Pelham (ancestor of the Pelhams, Dukes of Newcastle, and of the Lord Yarborough and Pelham) having been acknowledged the strongest, Lord Delawarr had, in commemoration of so valiant an exploit, the crampet, or chape, of the captive prince's sword; and Sir John Pelham had the buckle of a belt as a memento of the same achievement. His lordship continued for several years after Poictiers in the French wars, and acquired greater renown in every subsequent campaign. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Adam, Lord Welles, and had issue, 1. JOHN, and 2. THOMAS, successively Barons Delawarr. His lordship m. 2ndly, Alianore, dau. of John, Lord Mowbray, and had an only dau., 1. JOANNA, who m. Sir Thomas West, 3rd Baron West, and had issue, 1. THOMAS, Lord West, who d.s.p.; and 2. REGINALD (Sir), summoned to parliament, jure matris, as Baron Delawarr. Lord Delawarr d. 27 Aug. 1370, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN LA WARR, 4th Baron, summoned to parliament from 8 Jan. 1370, to 5 Nov. 1397. This nobleman, before and after his father's decease, was in the wars of Gascony with Prince EDWARD. In the 22nd of RICHARD II., his lordship obtained a special dispensation exempting him from attending any future parliaments, or serving the king in his wars, or otherwise, against his own good will. Shortly after which he departed this life, 27 July, 1398, and having no issue by Elizabeth, his wife, was s. by his brother,

THOMAS LA WARR, 5th Baron, who being a priest, and rector of the church of Manchester, was summoned to parliament from 10 Aug. 1399, to 7 Jan. 1426, as "Magistro Thomæ de la Warre." In the 9th HENRY V., his lordship obtained licence for making the parish church of Manchester collegiate; to consist of a warden and a certain number of priests, to celebrate divine service continually, for the good estate of HENRY V., and of him, the said Thomas, during this life, and afterwards for the health of their souls. He d. 7 May, 1426, when the barony of Delawarr devolved upon his half-sister's son, Sir REGINALD WEST, Lord West, as in the above account of the Wests.

DE L'ISLE AND DUDLEY.

The Baron De l'Isle and Dudley (Sir Philip Sidney), of Penshurst, Kent, and a baronet, late maj. the Rifle Brigade, b. 14 May, 1853; s. his father as 3rd baron 1898; m. 12 June, 1902, Hon. Elizabeth Maria, 4th dau. of 4th Viscount Gort, and widow of William H. Astell, D.L., of Woodbury Hall, Beds.

Lineage—The Sidneys, who are of Norman extraction, lineally descended from Sir William Sidney, Knt., chamberlain to King HENRY II. Sir William Sidney, to whom Penshurst Place was granted by King EDWARD VI., was chamberlain and steward of the household to King HENRY VIII., and was one of the commanders at the battle of Flodden, in 1515. His son, Sir Henry Sidney, was honoured with the confidence and friendship of EDWARD VI., and was lord president of Wales and lord deputy of Ireland in the reign of ELIZABETH. "A more exalted character than that of Sir Henry Sidney," observes Dr. Zouch, "is scarcely to be found in the volume of history. It deserves to be better known. In him we behold the brave soldier, the consummate general, the able counsellor, the wise legislator; while in the recesses of private life he was no less estimable as a husband, a father, and a friend: firmly attached to the Church of England, and adorning his christian profession by his temperance and exemplary piety." His eldest son, the all-accomplished Sir Philip Sidney, whom Camden describes as "the great glory of his family, the great hope of mankind, the most lively pattern of virtue, and the glory of the world," d.s.p.m. 16 Oct. 1586. Lineage—Adam de Aldithley attended Duke William to England, and was accompanied from Aldithley, in Normandy, by his sons, Lydulph and Adam de Aldithley, and had large possessions conferred upon him by the Conqueror.

Lydulph, eldest son, was father of Adam de Aldithley, which Adam was possessed, in right of his wife, Mabella, dau. and heir of Henry Stanley de Stoneley, of the manor of Stoneley and Balterley, co. Stafford (Dugdale's Baronage), and was ancestor of the Barons Audley, of Healey Castle, co. Stafford; and

Adam de Aldithley, second son, was father of William de Aldithley, to whom Thomas Stanley, of Stafford, kinsman of Henry Stanley, of Stoneley, gave his only dau. and heir, Joan, and with her, as a marriage portion, the manor of Thalk, co. Stafford: he having exchanged Thalk for Stoneley, and half the manor of Balterley, with his cousin Adam, made choice of Stoneley for his seat, and in honour of his lady, and the great antiquity of her family (of noble Saxon descent), who flourished in England many years before the Conquest, assumed the surname of Stanley and became the immediate founder of the Stanleys. This William was s. by his son and heir,

William Stanley de Stoneley, who was s. by his son,

Sir William Stanley, who had two sons, John Stanley, who d.s.p.; and

Sir Adam Stanley, 2nd son, but heir, who was s. by his son and heir,

Sir William Stanley, who m. Joan, eldest dau. and co-heir of Sir Philip de Bamvile (by Agnes, his wife, one of the daus. and co-heirs of Alexander de Stourton, by his wife, Amabilla, dau, and heir of Ranulph de Silvester, son of Allan Silvester, Lord of Stourton), by which alliance he became possessed of the manor and bailiwick of Wyrall Forest, and thereupon assumed the armorial bearings since used by his descendants, viz., arg. on a bend, az. three stags' heads, or, in place of those borne by his ancestors. He had issue, beside one dau. two sons, John and Adam. The elder son,

John Stanley, Lord of Stourton, &c., m. Mabella, dau. of Sir James Hausket, knt. of Stourton Parva, by whom he had,

1. William (Sir), his heir.
2. John of Greswithin, co. Cumberland, M.P. for Carlisle, 20 Edw. III., from whom descends Edward Stanley, of Ponsonby Hall, M.P. for Cumberland.

The elder son,

Sir William Stanley, Lord of Stourton, &c., m. Alice, dau. of Hugh Massey, of Timperley, and sister of Sir Hamon Massey, of Dunham Massey, and d. in the 21st Richard II., by whom he had, besides one dau., three sons,

1. William (Sir), eldest son, who s. his father, and was also of Hooton, in Cheshire, by right of his wife, Margery, dau. and heir of William de Hooton. From this Sir William descended the Baronets Stanley, afterwards Errington, of Hooton.
2. John (Sir), K.G., of whom presently.
3. Henry.

His 2nd son,

Sir John Stanley, K.G., m. Isabel, dau. and heir of Sir Thomas Lathom, knt., of Lathom and Knowsley, co. Lancaster (descended from Robert Fitz-Henry, whose son, Robert, took the name of Lathom, from his place of residence), and thus acquired those estates. In 1385, Sir John Stanley was lord-deputy of Ireland, and had a grant of the manor of Blake Castle, in that kingdom. In 1405, he had a commission, in conjunction with Roger Leke, to seize on the city of York and its liberties, and also upon the Isle of Man, on the forfeiture of Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland; and in the 7th Henry IV., being then treasurer of the household to the king, obtained licence to fortify a house at Liverpool, which he had newly built, with embattled walls. In the same year, having taken possession of the Isle of Man, he obtained a grant in fee of the said isle, castle, and pile, anciently called Holm Town, and all the isles adjacent, as also all the regalities, franchises, &c., to be holden of the said king, his heirs, and successors, by homage, and the service of two falcons, payable on the days of their coronation. On the accession of Henry V., he was made a knight of the Garter, and constituted lord-lieut. of Ireland for six years, in which government he d. in 1414, having had beside two daus. four sons,

1. John (Sir), of whom presently.
2. Henry.
3. Thomas (Sir), of Elford, co. Stafford, jure uxoris, whence come the Stanleys of Elford, Pipe, &c.
4. Ralph (Sir).

The eldest son and heir,

Sir John Stanley, knight of the shire, 2 Henry V. constable of Carnarvon, and justice of Chester, 5 Henry VI. and sheriff of Anglesey, m. Isabel (or Elizabeth), dau. of Sir Robert, and sister and heir of Sir William Harrington, knt. of Hornby, co. Lancaster, and had, beside two daus

1. Thomas (Sir), 1st Baron Stanley, of whom presently.

3. Edward }

The eldest son and heir,

Sir Thomas Stanley, 1st Baron Stanley, lord lieutenant of Ireland for six years (1432), comptroller of the household, and chamberlain to Henry VI., K.G. 1456; knight of the shire; summoned as Baron Stanley, 20 Jan. 1456 (34th Henry VI.). His lordship m. Jean, dau. and co-heir of Sir Robert Goushill, knt. of Heveringham, Notts, by Elizabeth his wife, (widow of Thomas Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, and dau. and co-heir of Richard Fitzalan, Earl of Arundel, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau of William Bohun, Earl of Northampton, son of Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Essex, by his wife, the Princess Elizabeth Plantagenet, dau. of King Edward I.) by whom he had, beside three daus.

1. Thomas, his successor.
2. William (Sir), of Holt, who was beheaded as a participator in the conspiracy for placing Perkin Warbeck upon the throne. Sir William was the richest subject in the kingdom, having no less than 40,000 marks in ready money, and £3,000 a-year; to which circumstance considering the rapacious disposition of Henry VII. may be attributed his destruction more than to his political principles.
3. John (Sir), who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir Thomas Weever, knt. of Weever, co. Chester, and by her acquired that estate. From this Sir John Stanley descended Lord Stanley of Alderley (see Sheffield, B.).

2. Edward (Sir), of Hornby Castle, Lancashire. This gallant person commanded the rear of the English army at Flodden Field, 9 Sept. 1513; and forcing the Scots, by the power of his archers, to descend the hill, thus broke their line, and insured the triumph of the English arms, for which good service, HENRY VIII. keeping his Whitsuntide at Eltham the next ensuing year, 1514, commanded that Sir Edward Stanley, for those valiant acts against the Scots, where he won the hill, and vanquished all that opposed him, as also that his ancestors bore the eagle in their crest, should be there proclaimed Lord of Monteagle, and he had subsequently summons to parliament in that dignity. He was also elected a knight of the Garter. His lordship's grandson, WILLIAM STANLEY, 3rd Lord of Monteagle, d. in 1581, leaving by Ellen, his wife, dau. of Sir Thomas Preston, of Preston Patrick and Levens, in Westmorland, an only dau. 3. James, in holy orders, bishop of Ely.

Lord Stanley m. 2ndly, Margaret, dau. and heir of John, Duke of Somerset, widow of Edmund Tudor, Earl of Richmond, and mother of King Henry VII. How far his lordship contributed to the victory of Bosworth is recorded in history; and his placing the crown of RICHARD upon the head of the victorious Richmond in the field is also a matter of historic record. In consideration of those eminent services, the new monarch advanced Lord Stanley, 27 Oct. 1485, to the dignity of EARL OF DERBY, and constituted him one of the commissioners for executing the office of lord-high-steward of England on the day of his coronation. His lordship, in the March following, had a grant of the great office of CONSTABLE OF ENGLAND for life. His widow d. 29 June, 1509. He d. 29 July, 1504, and was s. by his grandson,

EDWARD, 3rd Earl of Derby, K.G., lord-high-steward at the coronation of Queen MARY, and chamberlain of Chester in the reign of ELIZABETH; so celebrated for magnificence and liberality, that Camden says, "that with Edward, Earl of Derby's death, the glory of hospitality seemed to fall asleep." His lordship m. 1st, 21 Feb. 1530, Dorothy, dau. of Thomas, 2nd Duke of Norfolk; 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Ellis Barlow, of Barlow, co. Lancaster; 3rdly, Mary, dau. of Sir George Cotton, of Combermere, co. Chester (which lady m. 2ndly, Henry Grey, 6th Earl of Kent, and d. 16 Nov. 1580). He d. 24 Oct. 1572, and was s. by his eldest* son (by his 1st wife),

HENRY, 4th Earl of Derby, K.G., lord-lieut. of cos. Lancaster and Chester; one of the peers who sat upon the trial of MARY, Queen of Scots. His lordship m. 7 Feb. 1555, Margaret (who d. 29 Sept. 1596), only child of Henry Clifford, Earl of Cumberland by his 1st wife, Alianore, dau. and co-heir of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, and Mary, Dowager Queen of France, the sister of HENRY VIII, and dying 25 Sep. 1593, was s. by his eldest son,

* His lordship's 2nd son, by his 1st wife, SIR THOMAS STANLEY, Knt. of Winwick, m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Sir George Vernon, of the Peak; and d. in 1576, leaving a son,

1. FRANCES, m. Sir John Fortescue, Knt. and Bart. of Salden.
2. VENETIA, m. Sir Kenelm Digby, of Gothurst, Knt.

FERDINANDO, 5th Earl of Derby. This nobleman having been tampered with by one Hesketh, to assume the title of king in right of his grandmother, and rejecting the proposition indignantly, is supposed to have been poisoned in consequence by the conspirators. His lordship m. Alice, dau. of Sir John Spencer of Althorp, and by her (who m. 2ndly, 20 Oct. 1600, as his 3rd wife, Thomas Egerton, 1st Viscount Brackley, and d. 26 Jan. 1637) he had three daus., his co-heirs, viz.,

2. FRANCES, m. John, Earl of Bridgewater.
3. ELIZABETH, m. Henry, 5th Earl of Huntingdon.

His death occurred 16 April, 1594, when the BARONIES OF STANLEY AND STRANGE fell into abeyance amongst his daus., and the earldom devolved upon his brother,

WILLIAM, 6th Earl of Derby, K.G. This nobleman bought from his nieces their claims on the Isle of Man. His lordship m. 26 June, 1594, Elizabeth (who d. 10 March, 1626–7), eldest dau. of Edward Vere, 17th Earl of Oxford, and had, with four daus., two sons, 1. JAMES, his heir; and 2. Robert (Sir), Knt., who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Arthur Gorges, Knt., and had, with a dau., three sons, 1. CHARLES (Sir), of Chelsea, whose issue became extinct; 2. James, whose sons both d. young; and 3. Ferdinand, who d. in infancy. The earl dying 29 Sept. 1642, was s. by his son,

JAMES, 7th Earl of Derby, K.G., b. 31 Jan. 1607; who had been summoned to parliament, by writ 7 March, 1627-8, to 3 Nov. 1639, as Baron Strange, under an impression that such a barony was enjoyed by his father; that, however, not being the case, the summons amounted to the creation of a new peerage, which eventually devolved upon the ducal house of Atholl. His lordship, distinguished by his devoted and heroic attachment to royalty during the civil wars, fell into the hands of the enemy, after the battle of Worcester, and suffered decapitation, at Bolton, 15 Oct. 1651. He m. 26 June, 1626, Charlotte, dau. of Claude de la Trémouille, Duke of Thouars (this high-born and high-minded lady became famous for her gallant defence of Latham House, in 1644, when it was besieged by 2000 parliamentarians, and for her energetic protection of the Isle of Man, in 1651; she d. 21 March, 1663), and left issue, Lineage—The old and knightly family of Trafford, seated at Trafford, in the county palatine of Lancaster, from a period antecedent to the Norman Conquest, has preserved, from time immemorial, an unbroken male descent.

Randolphus de Trafford, who flourished "ante Conquestum," as the family pedigree sets forth, was father of Randolphus, of whom mention is made in two deeds to "Radulphus filius Radulphi," by which it appears that Radulphus, the father, "was then dead, and had flourished in King Canute the Dane his time, about the yeare 1030, and perhaps died after, in St. Edward the Confessor his time, about the year 1050; hee had noe surname, as then few of our Saxon nobilitie or gentry had." From this Radulphus sprang the great house of Trafford, which has since uninterruptedly held a most distinguished place amongst the first families of Lancashire. His son,

Robert Filius Radulphi, was of full age at the time of the Conquest, and about A.D. 1080 he, with his father, received the king's peace and protection from Hugh de Massy, Baron of Dunham Massy; his son,

8. Humphry.

Hugh, 2nd Earl, d. 2 May, 1377, and was s. by his grandson,

EDWARD, 3RD EARL OF DEVON, commonly called The Blind Earl, b. circa 1357. This nobleman served to the beginning of the reign of RICHARD II. as a naval officer, under JOHN of Gaunt, and THOMAS of Woodstock, respectively; and was appointed, in the 7th of the same monarch, admiral of all the king's fleet, from the mouth of the Thames westward. In the next year, being then EARL MARSHAL, his lordship was retained to serve the king in his Scottish wars. He m. Maud, dau. of Thomas, Lord Camoys; and dying 5 Dec. 1419, was s. by his second but only surviving son,

HUGH, 4TH EARL OF DEVON, K.B., b. 1389, who m. Anne, dau. of Richard, Lord Talbot, and sister of the renowned Earl of Shrewsbury; and dying 16 June, 1422, was s. by his son,

THOMAS, 5TH EARL OF DEVON, b. 1414. This nobleman commenced his military career at the age of sixteen, and was engaged for several years in the French wars of HENRY VI., with whom he sided on the breaking out of the unhappy conflict between the houses of York and Lancaster; and the Courtenays ever after adhered, with desperate fidelity, to the RED ROSE. In 1448, a dispute regarding precedency arose between the Earls of Devon and Arundel, which was decided by parliament in favour of the latter lord, owing to his feudal possession of Arundel Castle. The Earl of Devon d. 3 Feb. 1458, in the Abbey of Abingdon, upon his route to London, as a mediator, with other noblemen, between the king and the Duke of York. He m. Lady Margaret Beaufort, 2nd dau. of John, 1st Earl of Somerset, and Marquess of Dorset, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS, 6TH EARL OF DEVON, b. 1432. This nobleman inheriting the political principles, with the honours, of his deceased father, was a strenuous upholder of the Lancastrian interests, and falling into the hands of the Yorkists, at Towton Field, he was beheaded at York, by order of EDWARD IV., 3 April, 1461. His lordship was subsequently attainted and the honours of the house thus became eclipsed; but his next brother,

HUGH COURTENAY (7th earl, but for the attainder), finding favour with the new king, had restoration of some part of the estates. Engaging, however, in the Lancastrian quarrel, with the zeal of his predecessors, he was himself attainted, 4 May, 1466, before the king and justices at Sarum, and beheaded, with the Lord Hungerford, on the same day.

(The greater part of the Courtenay estates having been conferred upon Humphrey Stafford, Baron Stafford of Southwicke, that nobleman was created EARL OF DEVON in 1469; but falling under the axe as a traitor, 17 Aug. following, the dignity expired.)

Upon the demise of Hugh Courtenay, his only surviving brother,

JOHN COURTENAY, assumed the EARLDOM OF DEVON, and the Lancastrian interest prevailing in 1470, by the expulsion of King EDWARD, his lordship was restored to the honours and possessions of his family by the parliament that replaced the crown upon the head of HENRY VI. The subsequent defeat, however, of Richard Nevill, the stout Earl of Warwick, at Barnet Field, 14 April, 1471, again placed the fortunes of the house of Devon in jeopardy, and the earl, joining MARGARET OF ANJOU, fell, sword in hand, at Tewkesbury, 14 May following, at the head of MARGARET'S rear-guard. Thus the three brothers sealed with their blood their bond of fidelity to the house of Lancaster, and with them expired the senior branch of the ancient and illustrious house of Courtenay. The last earl was buried at Tewkesbury, and being attainted, the honours and estates of DEVON became again forfeited. His cousin and male heir,

SIR EDWARD COURTENAY, EARL OF DEVON (refer to descendants of Sir Hugh Courtenay, of Haccomb), being involved with his brother, in the conspiracy of Henry Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, in favour of Henry, Earl of Richmond, was forced to fly into Brittany upon the failure of the plot and the decapitation of the duke. Participating, subsequently, in the victory of Bosworth, he was elevated to the peerage by HENRY VII. (26 Oct. 1485), as EARL OF DEVON, and he obtained grants, at the same time, of the greater part of the estates, manors, &c., which had belonged to the late Thomas Courtenay, Earl of Devon. His lordship m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Philip Courtenay, of Molland. His lordship d. 28 May, 1509, leaving an only son,

SIR WILLIAM COURTENAY, K.B., who m. the Lady Katherine Plantagenet, dau. of EDWARD IV. In the year 1552 Sir William was arrested, with Lord William de la Pole, Sir James Tyrrell, and Sir John Wyndham, and accused of holding a traitorous correspondence with Edmund de la Pole, Earl of Suffolk, then a refugee at the court of his aunt, Margaret, Duchess of Burgundy, and he was attainted in 1504. Tyrrell and Wyndham were beheaded on Tower Hill, while Courtenay was doomed to incarceration during the king's reign. On HENRY VIII.'s accession, in 1509, Sir William was immediately released and taken into favour, but d. 9 June, 1511, before he had either letters patent or a formal restoration of the earldom. He was buried, however, "with the honours of an earl," at the especial command of the king. He

m. circa 1495, the Lady Catherine Plantagenet, by whom (who d. 15 Nov. 1527) he left an only son,

HENRY COURTENAY, MARQUESS OF EXETER, who having been restored in blood and honours, became 2nd Earl of Devon of the new creation. In 1522, his lordship obtained a grant of Celeland, in Cornwall, and of a "fair mansion," situate in the parish of St. Lawrence Poultry, in the city of London, forfeited by the attainder of Edward Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, and was advanced by letters patent, dated 18 June, 1525, to the dignity of Marquess of Exeter. For some years this nobleman enjoyed the favour of the fickle HENRY, but he fell at length a victim to that monarch's jealousy of the house of Pole. He was committed to the Tower with Henry Pole, Lord Montacute, and Sir Edward Nevill, for conspiring to place Reginald Pole, dean of Exeter, upon the throne, and was beheaded with Sir Edward Nevill, 9 Jan. 1539. On the subsequent attainder of the marquess all his honours expired, and the king annexed to the Duchy of Cornwall the lands in that county, which thus came to the crown. His lordship m. 1st, Elizabeth Grey, dau. and heir of John, Viscount Lisle, but by that lady had no issue. He m. 2ndly, 25 Oct. 1519, Gertrude, dau. of Wm. Blount, Lord Mountjoy, by whom (who d. 25 Sept. 1558) he left an only surviving child,

EDWARD COURTENAY, 1st Earl of Devon, who, though but twelve years of age at the death of his father, was committed prisoner to the Tower, and detained there during the remainder of King HENRY'S reign, and that of EDWARD VI.; but upon the accession of Queen MARY he was released, and a patent, dated Richmond, 3 Sept. 1553, was issued, creating him EARL OF DEVON, with remainder to him and his heirs male for ever. On the 10th October following, he was fully restored in blood; but as the attainder of his father was never reversed, he did not succeed to the earldom of Devon, created in the 1st HENRY VII., nor to the earldom created in the 3rd HENRY VIII., neither did he to the Marquessate of Exeter. His lordship had some command in suppressing Wyatt's rebellion, and yet was afterwards, with the Princess ELIZABETH, accused of being accessory thereto, and sent with her highness to the Tower. He was subsequently confined in Fotheringay Castle, but released through the interposition of PHILIP of Spain, upon that monarch's marriage with the queen; the Lady ELIZABETH being liberated through the same influence. His lordship after this, obtained the queen's permission to go abroad, and d. at Padua, not without suspicion of poison, 18 Sept. 1556. He d. unm., and his estates reverted to the issue of his great-aunts, and the four daus. of Sir Hugh Courtenay, of Boconnock, and sisters of Edward, 1st earl. At his lordship's decease, the earldom of Devon was considered to have become extinct, and it remained dormant for no less than two hundred and sixty-five years. It was, however, re-established in another branch of the family, as heirs male of the deceased lord (to which we shall now proceed), by the decision of parliament, 15 March, 1831.

The existing branch of the Courtenays was founded by

SIR PHILIP COURTENAY, of Powderham Castle (refer to issue of Hugh de Courtenay, 2nd of the original Earls of Devon), who received the honour of knighthood from Edward the Black Prince, with his brothers Hugh and Peter, the day before the battle of Navaret, in Spain, and was constituted in 1333, lord lieutenant of Ireland for ten years. Sir Philip m. Anne, dau. of Sir Thomas Wake, by whom he left three sons and two daus., and was s. at his decease, in the 7th HENRY IV., by his eldest son, RICHARD COURTENAY, Lord Bishop of Norwich. This prelate was one of the ambassadors sent by HENRY V. to the King of France, to demand the crown of that kingdom, as his by right of descent, and to denounce war in the event of non-compliance. His Grace carried the Queen's Crown at the Coronation in 1911.

Lineage—The noble family of Cavendish, of which, in the last century, two branches attained dukedoms, laid the foundations of its greatness originally on the share of Abbey lands, obtained, at the dissolution of the monasteries, by Sir William Cavendish, who had been gentleman-usher to Cardinal Wolsey, and d. in 1557; and subsequently, by the abilities and the good fortune of Elizabeth, his widow, who married George, Earl of Shrewsbury, and d. in 1607, aged eighty-seven (see Burke's Reminiscences). But though thence arose the exalted rank and extensive possessions enjoyed at present by the Cavendishes, be it not supposed that their remote ancestors were obscure. Whether the first of the name who enjoyed the lordship of Cavendish, in Suffolk, was or was not the son of a member of the baronial family of Gernon, whom genealogists have stated to have owned that estate, it is clearly ascertained that

Sir John Cavendish, who acquired the lordship of Cavendish Overhall, by his marriage with Alice, dau. and heiress of John de Odyngseles, was chief justice of the Court of King's Bench in 1366, 1373, and 1377. In the 4th Richard II., his lordship was elected chancellor of the University of Cambridge, and was next year commissioned, with Robert de Hales, treasurer of England, to suppress the insurrection raised in the city of York; in which year the mob, having risen to the number of 50,000, made it a point, particularly in the co. of Suffolk, to plunder and murder the lawyers; and being incensed in a more than ordinary degree against the Chief Justice Cavendish, his son, John, having killed the notorious Wat Tyler, they seized upon, and dragged him, with Sir John of Cambridge, prior of Bury, into the market-place of that town, and there caused both to be beheaded. By Alice his said wife he had (with a dau.) two sons,

1. Andrew (Sir), Knt., of Cavendish Overhall, M.P. Suffolk, 51 Edward III, sheriff Norfolk and Suffolk, 8 Richard II., d. 1396, leaving by Rose, his wife, a son, William, of Cavendish Overhall, who conveyed his manor to his cousin, 13 Henry IV.
2. John, of whom hereafter.

The younger son of the judge,

Sir John Cavendish, esquire of the body to King Richard II., is said to be the person who actually slew Wat Tyler: "For William Walworth, mayor of London, having arrested him, he furiously struck the mayor with his dagger, but being armed, hurt him not; whereupon, the mayor, drawing his baselard, grievously wounded Wat in the neck; in which conflict an esquire of the king's house, called John Cavendish, drew his sword, and wounded him twice or thrice even unto death. For which service, Cavendish was knighted in Smithfield, and had a grant of £40 per annum from the king." He m. Joan, dau. of Sir William Clopton, Knt., of Clopton, and had three sons,

1. William, his heir.
2. Robert, serjeant-at-law, d.s.p. 1439.
3. Walter, living 11 Henry VI.

William Cavendish, of Cavendish Overhall, grantee of his cousin, m. Joan Staventon, and had two sons,

1. Thomas, his heir.
2. William.

He d. 1433, and was s. by his eldest son,

1. GEORGE, of Cavendish Overhall, the faithful attendant of Cardinal Wolsey through all fortunes; so faithful, indeed, that after the death of the Cardinal, King HENRY retained him in his own service, especially upon the grounds of his attachment to his late fallen master, d. about 1562, leaving, with a younger son, Ralph, a son and heir,

WILLIAM, of Cavendish Overhall, who sold his manor to William Downes, 1569.

2. WILLIAM, of whom hereafter.

He made his will 13 April, 15 HENRY VIII., appointed his 2nd wife, Agnes, executrix (by whom he had a dau., Mary), and d. 1523. His 2nd son,

SIR WILLIAM CAVENDISH, was, in 1530, appointed one of the commissioners for visiting and taking the surrenders of divers religious houses, and in that year the prior and convent of Sheen surrendered their monastery to him. Lineage—In the Confessor's reign Aelmar held land in Tilton, co. Leicester. The family of Digby descending from him were sometimes styled Diggeby de Tilton and sometimes Tilton only. It has been frequently stated that this family removed to Digby in Lincolnshire in 1256 and thence assumed the name, but it was used much earlier. In 1234, lands at Billesdon had been conveyed to the heir of Robert de Diggeby. About 1240, Anne, his relict, held half a fee in Tilton.

EVERARD DIGBY filled the office of high sheriff of the co. of Rutland in 1434, and represented that shire in parliament. He fell at the battle of Towton, in 1440, fighting under the banner of the unfortunate HENRY VI. His son was the celebrated SIR KENELM DIGBY, Knt., one of the most faithful adherents of the royal cause in the civil war, and an exile, in consequence, during CROMWELL's usurpation. This Ornament of England, as he has been styled, wrote several learned books; was a great benefactor to the Bodleian library, by presenting it, in 1633, with a large collection of MSS.; recovered the reputation of his family, and rendered it famous throughout the Christian world. DONEGALL.

The Marquess and Earl of Donegall (Edward Arthur Donald St. George Hamilton Chichester), Earl of Belfast, Viscount Chichester, and Baron of Belfast, in Ireland; Baron Fisherwick, of Fisherwick, co. Stafford, in Great Britain; Hereditary Lord High Admiral of Lough Neagh, and governor of Carrickfergus Castle; b. 7 Oct. 1903; s. his father as 6th marquess 1904.

Lineage—Sir Arthur Chichester, Knt., Lord Chichester of Belfast, 2nd son of Sir John Chichester, Knt. (see Chichester, Bart.), by Gertrude, his wife, dau. of Sir William Courtenay, Knt, of Powderham Castle, Devon. In 1603, he was sworn of the privy council; and in 1604, appointed lord deputy of Ireland, in which year he established two new circuits, sending the first justices of assize into Connaught, and reviving the circuit of Munster, which had been discontinued for more than two hundred years, so that the circuits, which had previously been confined to the English pale, thenceforward included the whole kingdom, and with such effect that, in a very short time, there were not found in all the Irish counties so many capital offenders as in the six shires of the western circuit in England. Sir Arthur, in consideration of his services, military and civil, obtained considerable grants of land in the province of Ulster, and was created Baron Chichester, of Belfast, in the peerage of Ireland, 23 Feb. 1612. His lordship continued in the government of Ireland for ten years successively, and was re-appointed in July, 1613; in which year the harp of Ireland was first marshalled with the arms of England, and has since continued to be impressed upon the coin of the realm. In Nov. 1615, he retired from his high office, and was appointed, in 1616, lord high treasurer of Ireland. Lord Chichester chiefly resided at Carrickfergus, where he erected, in 1618, a magnificent mansion called Joymount. In 1622, he went ambassador to the palatinate, and thence to treat of a peace with the emperor. During his residence at the imperial court, being besieged in the city of Mainchina, or Manheim, by Count Tilly, he remonstrated against the violation of the law of nations in besieging an ambassador; to which Tilly replying, that he noticed not his being an ambassador, his lordship thus answered the messenger:—"Had my master sent me with as many hundred men as he hath sent me on fruitless messages, your general should have known that I had been a soldier as well as an ambassador." Lineage—This family of DRAKE was founded by the celebrated

SIR FRANCIS DRAKE, one of the most eminent of the naval heroes of the reign of ELIZABETH. Born near Tavistock, in 1545, Drake attained the height he eventually achieved by his own enterprising spirit and transcendent merit alone. In 1570, he made his first expedition, with two ships, the "Dragon" and the "Swan"; and the next year in the "Swan" alone, wherein he returned safe, if not rich. And having now means sufficient to perform greater matters, he laid before the public the plan of a more important design against his enemies. This he put into execution, 24 March, 1572, on which day he sailed from Plymouth, himself in the "Pascha," of seventy tons burden, and his brother, John Drake, in the "Swan," of twenty-five tons, their whole strength consisting of no more than seventy-three men and boys. With this inconsiderable force, he attacked, on the 22nd July, the town of Nombre de Dios, and took it in a few hours by storm. His next attempt was upon Vera Cruz, which he carried and pillaged. From this successful expedition he came back to England in Aug. 1573. He subsequently served as a volunteer in Ireland, under Walter, Earl of Essex; and upon his return was introduced by Sir Christopher Hatton to Queen ELIZABETH, when her Majesty immediately took him under her protection; and he was enabled, by her royal favour, to undertake and accomplish, within three years, his celebrated voyage round the world. In 1588, when the Spanish armada menaced the shores of England, Sir Francis Drake was appointed vice-admiral, under Charles, Lord Howard of Effingham, and had the good fortune to capture the great galleon, commanded by Don Pedro de Valdez, the reputed projector of the enterprise, by which himself and his crew divided 55,000 ducats. Lineage—This family, which derived its surname from the Barony of Cochrane, co. Renfrew, is of great antiquity in North Britain; and under the name of BLAIR, was of baronial rank many centuries previously to its attaining the honour of the peerage.

WARDEN DE COCHRANE, in the reign of ALEXANDER III., was witness to the grant made by Dungal, the son of Swaine to Walter Cumming, Earl of Monteith, of sundry lands in the co. of Argyll; and his successor,

WILLIAM DE COCHRANE, performed homage to EDWARD I. From this person descended,

WILLIAM DE COCHRANE, who erected, from the foundation, the ancient seat of Cochrane, and ornamented it with extensive plantations. This gentleman left by his wife Margaret, dau. of Sir Robert Montgomery, of Skelmorly, co. Ayr, an only dau.,

ELIZABETH COCHRANE, m. Alexander, 3rd son of John Blair, of that ilk (for pedigree of BLAIR of Blair, see BURKE's Landed Gentry), which

ALEXANDER BLAIR assumed the surname and arms of COCHRANE. Of this marriage there were seven sons and three daus. The eldest son,

In 1764, his lordship was cornet in the 3rd regiment of dragoons, but soon afterwards exchanged the military for the naval service of his country. The earl's long life was principally devoted to scientific objects, chiefly with the view of benefiting the commercial and manufacturing interests. Great industries have since been founded on his discoveries. He d. 1 July, 1831, and was s. by his eldest son,

1. Elizabeth Katharine, m. 27 Feb. 1840, John Willis Fleming, of Stoneham Park, Hants; and d. at Florence, 25 Aug. 1868.

His lordship, best known as Lord Cochrane, has left a name of high distinction in our naval annals. His career was one of brilliant exploit and daring. In 1809, his destruction of the enemy's ships in the Basque Roads dealt a crushing blow to Napoleon's maritime efforts. In 1818 he served under the government of Chili and Peru, which had revolted against Spain, and his naval assistance mainly contributed to those provinces achieving their independence. His great feats in that war were his capture of Valdivia, and his cutting out the Spanish frigate "Esmeralda" from under the fortifications of Callao—a splendid act of seamanlike skill. Lord Dundonald was afterwards employed by the empire of Brazil, and there also was completely successful. He was created Marquess of Maranham in Brazil. He subsequently commanded the Greek Navy in that country's struggle for freedom, and, like his father, patented many inventions which are of great benefit to mankind. He d. 31 Oct. 1860, and was s. by his eldest son,

Lineage—This is one of the few families of Celtic origin in the Irish peerage. Its ancestors, chiefs of the clan of Hy-Ifearnar, were seated at a very early period in a barony of the co. of Clare, which derived its name of Inchiquin from them. They were of the same stock as the O'Briens, and descended from CORMAC CAS, son of OLLIOLL OLUM, monarch of Ireland at the opening of the 3rd century. O'Ferrall's Linea Antiqua gives a detailed pedigree of the O'Quins of Munster, deducing from three sons of DEADHA, viz., CONN MOR, MOROGH, and FLAHERTY, the three families of O'QUIN, O'DEA, and O'ROAN. A very curious and interesting letter from THADY QUIN, of Adare, J.P. temp. JAMES II., still in the possession of the Earl of Dunraven, refers to this Celtic descent and carries up the pedigree to DONOGH QUIN, son of James Quin, of Kilmallock, and nephew of Dr. John Coyn, or Quin, bishop of Limerick, who was, according to Ware, preferred temp. HENRY VIII. to that see, but being blind and infirm, resigned 9 April, 1551. He m. Joan, dau. and sole heir of Sir Lucas Cusack, Knt., Lord of Killeen, by whom he had, with other children, John, ancestor of the Earl of Fingall, who inherited the lordship of Killeen; and

Christopher, 1st Baron of Dunsany, who was created baron, by writ, 17th Henry VI. He m. 1st, Anne, dau. and heir of Richard Fitzgerald, of Ballysonan, co. Kildare, younger son of Maurice, 3rd Earl of Kildare, by whom he had four sons; 2ndly, Elizabeth, sister of Robert, 1st Viscount Gormanston. He was s. by the eldest,

Richard, 2nd Baron of Dunsany, who m. Joan, dau. of Sir Rowland FitzEustace, Baron Portlester, lord treasurer of Ireland in 1471, and lord high chancellor in 1474; and was s. by his only son,

His lordship m. 1st, Eleanor, youngest dau. of Sir William Darcy, Knt., of Platten, vice-treasurer of Ireland, by whom he had four sons and nine daus. A short time before the year 1641, the lords-justices had supplied the Lords of the Pale with arms, but suddenly recalled them, which occasioned much discontent among the Catholic lords, who, having assembled, appointed Lord Dunsany to assure the justices of their attachment and loyalty, and of their readiness to co-operate in every measure that could be conducive to the peace of the country. The lords-justices, however, took no further notice of this proffered service than by confining his lordship in the castle of Dublin, where he remained for several years; but on the restoration of Charles II. he again took his seat in the House of Lords, and continued to sit until 1666. His lordship m. Jane, dau. of Sir Thomas Heneage, of Haynton, co. Lincoln, and was s. at his decease by his grandson,

Randall, 11th Baron of Dunsany. This nobleman, adhering to the falling fortunes of James II., was outlawed in 1691; but being included in the treaty of Limerick, his estates were restored; neglecting, however, the forms necessary to re-establish himself in the privileges of the peerage, neither his lordship nor his immediate descendants had a seat in the House of Lords. He m. 1st, Anne, relict of Theobald, 1st Earl of Carlingford, and dau. of Sir William Pershall, but by that lady had no issue. He m. 2ndly, May, 1711, Bridget, only dau. of Richard Fleming, of Stahalmock, Meath (by his 1st wife); and dying 16 March, 1735, left an only son,

Lineage—"No earlier owners of Lambton (we quote SURTEES Durham) are on record than the ancient and honourable family which still bears the local name. The regular pedigree can only be traced from the twelfth century, many of the family records being destroyed in the civil wars; but the previous residence of the family is well proved by attestations of charters and incidental evidence, from a period very nearly approaching the Norman Conquest."

Lineage—The very ancient family of Tollemache claims Saxon descent.

Hugh de Tollemache subscribed the charter sans date (about the reign of King Stephen), made by John de St. John to Edith, the first Abbess of Godstow, in Oxfordshire. This Hugh, in his old age, assumed the cowl at Gloucester, and bestowed upon that monastery a moiety of the town of Hampton, which his son, Peter, confirmed, in the time of the Abbot Hamblin. The descendant of Peter,

Sir Hugh de Tollemache, in the 25th of Edward I., held of the crown the manor of Bentley, and the fourth part of the village of Aketon, by knight's service in the 29th of the same monarch,

William and John Tollemache had summons to attend the king at Berwick-upon-Tweed, previous to his expedition into Scotland. This John took the black cross, and his arms are now remaining in the minster at York.

Sir Lionel Tollemache, of Bentley, flourished in the reigns of Henry VI. and Edward IV., and was a personage of great influence and authority. He m. the heir of Helmingham, in Suffolk, and by that alliance acquired the inheritance. His son, John, was father of

By this marriage John Montgomery acquired the baronies of Eglinton and Ardrossan, and had issue JOHN, his successor, and Alexander, who acquired from his mother the lands of Bonnington in the barony of Ratho in 1387. Lineage—The family of Elphinstone took this surname from the lands so named in Lothian, which they held in the 14th and 15th centuries from the Setons. In the reign of DAVID II. they came into possession of part of Erth or Airth in Stirlingshire. In 1362 Alexander Elphinstone of that ilk gave certain lands in Stanehouse, which his father had acquired from Godfrey of Ross, to Alexander More, in exchange for part of Erthbeg. Sir William Elphinstone of that ilk had in 1399 a charter to himself and his issue male with remainder to his brothers, of the lands which he held from Sir William Lindsay of Byres, He had two sons, Alexander and William. The elder son, Alexander Elphinstone of that ilk, was killed in a border raid at Piperden in Northumberland in 1436, leaving a dau. Janet, m. Sir Gilbert Johnston, who s. to Elphinstone in Lothian, while the Stirlingshire estates passed to Alexander's brother, Sir Henry Elphinstone of Pittendreich. Sir Henry's grandson and successor,

SIR JOHN ELPHINSTONE, of Pittendreich, had charters of Erth, Cragorth (Craigforth), and the other Stirlingshire lands in 1496 and 1497, and in 1503 these were resigned by Patrick Lord Lindsay of the Byres to be held by Elphinstone of the Crown, and incorporated by charter under the designation of the barony of Elphinstone. Lineage—A branch of the Norman De La Hayes, which settled in England at the Conquest, seems to have been the ancestors of the Scottish Hays. Sir Gilbert Hay, of Erroll, a steadfast adherent of Robert Bruce, got from that king the lands of Slains, in Aberdeenshire, and the high office of constable of Scotland. That office, conferred on him before 1309, was made hereditary by a charter 12 Nov., 1314, limiting it to his heirs of line; dying in 1330 he was s. by his son,

John Esmonde was Bishop of Ferns 1349, translated to the see of Emly 1356 and d. 4 April, 1362. Thomas Esmonde was Constable of Wexford Castle 1357. The Visitation of Wexford by Molyneux, Ulster, commences with

James Esmonde, of Johnstown, co. Wexford, m. Isabel, dau. of Thomas Rosseter, of Rathmacknee Castle, and left a son,

Laurence Esmonde, of Johnstown. This gentleman m. Eleanor, dau. of Walter Walsh, of The Mountains, by whom he had two sons, and was s. by the elder,

William Esmonde, who m. Margaret, dau. of Michael Furlong, of Horetown, and had, with seven daus., four sons, viz.,

1. Robert, living in 1618, who continued the line of Johnstown. He had issue,
   1. William, of Johnstown, M.P. for Wexford 1634, who left issue,
      (1) Laurence, of Johnstown, executor to Lord Esmonde. He d. 1652.

   4. Elizabeth, m. Hugh Rochford.
   5. Mary, m. Anthony Colclough.
   6. Margaret, m. Richard Shortall.

The 2nd son,

Sir Laurence Esmonde, Lord Esmonde in 1594, was vice-constable of the Blackwater, served in Connaught, and commanded, in 1601-2, a troop of 150 foot and horse in Elizabeth's service, was knighted by Sir Henry Sydney, the o-d-deputy, in 1602. He was M.P. for Wicklow 1613 and Privy Councillor, and was raised to the peerage, in 1622 (being at the time major-general of all the king's forces in Ireland, and governor of Duncannon Fort), as Lord Esmonde, Baron of Limerick, co. Wexford. During one of his campaigns in Connaught, he married a sister of O'Flaherty, Dynast of Iar Connaught, and had one son, Thomas (Sir), 1st bart. It happened, however, that Lady Esmonde, a devout Roman Catholic, fearing that her child might be brought up a Protestant, formed the resolution of carrying off the infant by stealth, and returning to her family in Connaught. This act of maternal devotion appears to have been not at all disagreeable to Sir Laurence, as affording him a pretext for casting suspicion on the legality of his union, that of a Protestant with a Catholic: yet, without resorting to legal measures to annul the marriage in due form, he m. 6 May, 1603, Ellice, widow of John Shirlock and of Sir Edward Gough, and dau. of the Hon. Walter Butler, 4th son of James, 9th Earl of Ormonde. She d. 16 Jan. 1644-5. His lordship d. 26 March, 1646, and was s. by his only son,

Sir Thomas Esmonde, 1st Bart. The severity and singularity of his case created considerable interest; and there is scarce a doubt that, but for the melancholy state of civil war, usurpation, and destruction of property at that period, and upon legal investigation into the matter and the accompanying circumstances, the conduct of Lord Esmonde towards his lady, and the legality of his lordship's second marriage (his first undivorced wife still living), Sir Thomas Esmonde's right of succession to his father's peerage could not fail to have been acknowledged. Sir Thomas Esmonde, as already noticed, was reared and educated with his maternal relations; and upon his uncle being raised in the peerage to the dignity of Viscount Bourke of Mayo, by privy seal, dated at Westminster, 8 Feb. 1626, and by patent, 21 June, 1627, Sir Thomas, who had already been knighted for his eminent services in the cause of royalty, as general of horse in the armies of Charles I. was created, through Lord Mayo's influence, a few months later (28 Jan. 1628-9), a Baronet of Ireland. He was M.P. for Enniscorthy 1640-2, and was maj.-gen. of the confederated Catholics in 1641. Sir Thomas m. 1st, before 19 March, 1629, Ellice, widow of Thomas, 4th Lord Cahir, and dau. of Sir John FitzGerald, of Dromana, co. ♦VICTOR ALEXANDER, Midshipman R.N., b. 15 Feb. 1891.

Lineage—This family was, in the 13th century, settled close to the Border, and at no great distance from Coldstream, the township of Ewart, which contains Ewart Park, being situated between the two rivers Till and Glen at their junction. From this circumstance, and as the name was at one time spelt Eworthe, Œwart, and Ewrth, it probably owes its origin to the Saxon words Æw and Worthe, signifying river, property, or estate. NEIL EWART possessed lands in Annandale in 1373. In the 15th century a branch moved into the Stewartry of Kircudbright, and the name of JOHN EWART (a chaplain) appears in one of the Terregles Charters dated 25 April, 1485. A charter was granted to WILLIAM EWART of the lands and mansion of Buthil or Buittle, in the Stewartry, dated 31 March, 1577, and confirmed by King JAMES VI, to his eldest son John, dated Holyrood 4 Dec. 1586.

ANDREW EWART was Treasurer of Kirkcudbright in 1583, and his name is repeatedly mentioned in the Borough Records. His son,

JOHN EWART, of Mulloch, Bailie of Kirkcudbright, b. in 1565, purchased the estate of Mulloch, from Maxwell of Terregles in 1611. He was s. by his son, bright in the Scottish Parliament temp. CHARLES II. He was a covenanter, and the Borough Records state that he advanced money for the defence of the town in 1644. He was s. by his second son,

JOHN EWART, of Mulloch, b. 1622; m. Marion, dau. of John Brown, of Carluith Castle. He was Provost of Kirkcudbright, and represented the Borough in King WILLIAM III's first Scottish Parliament. For his sympathy with the Covenanters he was conveyed as a prisoner to Edinburgh, together with Lord Kirkcudbright and John Carson of Senwick, and was sentenced by the Privy Council to be banished from the kingdom, a sentence afterwards commuted to a heavy fine. He d. in 1699. His brother William, Provost of Kirkcudbright in 1664, represented the borough in the Scottish Parliament in 1678, and a son of the latter, Samuel, who was Provost in 1710, raised a body of Foot and marched to Dumfries in 1715, to assist in the defence of that town against the Jacobite forces. Lineage—The family of Ewing has been long settled in the West of Scotland, and one of the name (Dovenaldus filius Ewyn) is witness to a charter granted by Walter, Steward of Scotland, 1177. In the middle of the 16th century the Ewings acquired the lands of Balloch, co. Dumbarton, an ancient possession of the Earls of Lennox, and they also possessed the lands of Bernice and Glenlean, and other estates in Corval, Argyll. They suffered severely by the ravages inflicted on their lands and property in Argyll by the troops of the Duke of Gordon and the Marquis of Atholl, in consequence of their adherence to the cause of the unfortunate Earl of Argyll in the reign of JAMES VII. A curious contemporary account has been preserved of the depredations then committed on the Ewings, and the other followers of the clan Campbell, written by the son of William Ewing, the then proprietor of Bernice. Wearied by these ravages and exactions, the family betook themselves to their Dumbartonshire property.

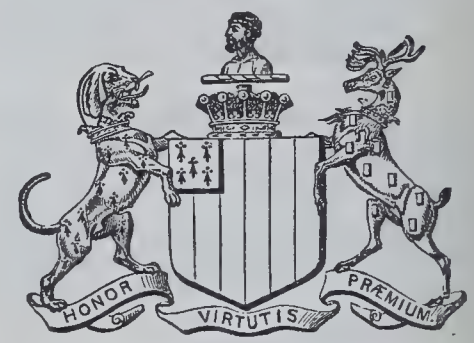
FERRERS.



The Earl Ferrers (Sir Sewallis Edward Shirley), Viscount Tamworth, and a baronet, J.P. and D.L. cos. Leicester and Stafford, J.P. Derbyshire, M.A. Camb., Knight of Justice of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem in England, Provincial Grand Master of Freemasons of Leicester and Rutland, b. 24 Jan. 1847; s. his father as 10th earl 1859; m. 24 Oct. 1885, Lady Ina Maude White, dau. of the 3rd Earl of Bantry (see that title). She d.s.p. 8 June, 1907.

Lineage—The very ancient and honourable family of SHIRLEY has had the good fortune to have been illustrated by an historical narrative, compiled by a distinguished member of its own house. Sir Thomas Shirley, of Botolph's Bridge, composed three distinct MS. histories of the SHIRLEYS, all of which are preserved in the British Museum, and in our own time, the late Mr. Evelyn Philip Shirley, of Ettington and Lough Fea, a very learned and accomplished archæologist, wrote a comprehensive and able memoir of his illustrious house, under the title of "Stemmata Shirliana." From these authorities it appears that the Shirleys derive descent from SASUALLO or SEWALLUS DE ETINGDON, whose name (says DUGDALE, in his Antiquities of Warwickshire) argues him to be of the old English stock. He resided at Nether Etingdon, in the co. Warwick, about the reign of King EDWARD THE CONFESSOR, which place had been the seat of his ancestors, as there is reason to believe, for many generations before that period.

After the CONQUEST, the lordship of Etingdon was given to Henry, Earl of Ferrars, in Normandy, who was one of the principal adventurers with the Norman Duke WILLIAM, and was held under him by this Sewallus, with whose posterity, in the male line, it has continued to the present reign, the late Hon. George Shirley, who d. in 1787, having been owner thereof. This long continuance of ownership is mentioned by DUGDALE, who says, in his Warwickshire, that Etingdon is the only place in the county which could glory in an uninterrupted succession of its owners for so long a space of time.

As appears by Kenilworth Register, Sewallus de Etingdon, before mentioned, founded and endowed the church of Nether Etingdon. That he was an eminent man is obvious from his large possessions in the counties of Warwick, Lincoln, Northampton, and Derby, in the time of the CONQUEROR, few being allowed at that change to enjoy more than a part of their estates, and even obliged to hold that portion by military and other services, from their new lords. He d. about 1085, and was s. by his only child,

FULCHER, who d. about 1105, leaving issue, five sons,

1. SEWALLIS, his heir.
2. Henry, from whom descended the family of Shirley of Ireton, co. Derby, who took the name of Ireton.
3. Fulcher, twice married, but d.s.p.
4. Nicholas. 5. Robert.

The eldest son,

Sewallis. d. about 1129, leaving by his 1st wife, Matilda, dau. of Ridel of Halaughton, co. Derby,

1. Henry, his successor.
2. Fulcher, who held four knights' fees, but d.s.p.
3. Hugh, a priest.
4. Ralph.
5. Richard.

Having translated his seat from Etingdon to Shirley in Derbyshire, he was the first of the family who called himself De Shirley. He was s. by his eldest son,

Henry, who held five knights' fees in Derbyshire, of Robert de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, and d. about 1165. He gave the lordship of Ivanbrook to the monks of Bildewas, and was a witness to the foundation charter of Merevalle Abbey. He left issue, by Joanna, dau. and heir of John de Clinton, of Essex,

Sewallis, his son and heir, who, in 1167, acknowledged himself to hold of William de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, those nine knights' fees which Henry his father, and his uncle, sometime held of Earl Robert, grandfather to the said earl. He m. Isabel, dau. and co-heir of Robert Meynell, of Langley-Meynell, co. Derby, by whom he had a dau., Elizabeth, wife of John de Walton, son of Simon, Bishop of Norwich; and a son and heir,

Sir James de Shirley, who was a knight, and had free warren granted to him in all his demesnes at Shirley, in 1247, and at Etingdon, in 1255. He m. Agnes de Walton, dau. of Simon de Walton, Bishop of Norwich, and had issue by her, Sir Ralph, his successor. He d. about 1278.

Sir Ralph de Shirley, in the 7th year of Edward I., held the manor of Ettendon, co. Warwick, of Edmund, Earl of Lancaster, the king's brother, by the service of two knights' fees. Lineage—The common ancestor of the BARONS FFRENCH and the BARONS DE FREYNE was WALTER FFRENCH, who migrated from Wexford and settled in the town of Galway 1425. He was Sovereign (chief magistrate) of that town 1444 to 1445. From him descended,

JOHN FFRENCH, mayor of Galway 1538-9, added the wing to the Church of St. Nicholas, Galway, called "ffrench's aisle," and built a beautiful side chapel in the Franciscan Abbey in Galway. JOHN FFRENCH purchased before 1636, the castle and lands of Clogher (now called Castle ffrench) in the baronies of Kilconnell and Killyan, co. Galway, and d. 1642, leaving a son,

JASPER FFRENCH, of Clogher, was deprived of his estate in 1655 by the Cromwellian Commissions, who allotted it to Dr. Gerald Fennell and Ellen his wife, dau. and heir of John O'Meagher, of Clonenikeny, co. Tipperary, on their transplantation into Connaught. In 1671, Jasper ffrench repurchased the estate from Ellen the widow, and got a confirmatory grant in 1677 by patent under the Acts of Settlement (patent dated 18 Aug. enrolled 5 Oct. 1677). He rebuilt the castle in 1683. He had two sons, 1. Patrick, m. 1 April, 1676, Barbara, 2nd dau. of Anthony ffrench, of Calla, but d.s.p. v.p. and 2. MARTIN. The younger son,

He was a man of remarkable shrewdness and sagacity, and laid the foundation of the prosperity of the family. A supporter of the house of Stuart, he was fined by the Covenanters. ALEXANDER DUFF of Keithmore, his successor, was an extensive purchaser of land in Banffshire and Aberdeenshire during the period preceding the Union, when many of the old lairds were greatly impoverished. Keithmore, from which he took his designation, was a wadset from the Huntly family, and is now the property of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon. He m. Helen (who d. 1694), dau. of Archibald Grant, of Ballentomb (ancestor of the Grants of Monymusk, Barts.), a lady who brought him a large fortune, and to whose prudence and industry (according to Baird of Auchmedden) much of the future prosperity of the family was due. He d. about 1700, and a monument of some pretension was erected to his memory in Mortlach churchyard. He had issue,

1. Alexander of Braco, b. 1650, who added greatly to the estates acquired by his father, in which were now included Aberlour, Keith, Grange, and Mortlach, the latter including Balveny. Sir William was s. by his son.

Sir William Fitzwilliam, Lord of Elmley and Sprotburgh, living 1117, as appears from a grant made by him of a piece of wood in Elmley to the monks of Piland. To this grant is a round seal, representing a man on horseback, completely armed, and circumscribed, S. Willmi Filij Willmi Dni de Emmalaia; and on the reverse, the arms of Fitzwilliam; viz., Lozengy. This Sir William, or one of his descendants, caused a cross to be set up in the High Street of Sprotborough, with these words engraven on brass:—

"Whoso is hungry, and lists to eate,
Let him come to Sprotburgh to his meate;
And for a night, and for a day,
His horse shall have both corn and hay,
And no man shall ask him where he goeth away."

Sir William was father of Sir William Fitzwilliam, who m. Ella, dau. and co-heir of William de Warren, Earl of Surrey, and d. 1148, leaving a son and successor, Sir William Fitzwilliam, who m. Albreda, dau. of Robert de Lisoures, and widow of Richard FitzEustace, and d. 1184, leaving a son, Sir William Fitzwilliam, who m. Ella, dau. of Hameline Plantagenet, Earl of Surrey, and was father of Sir Thomas Fitzwilliam, who m. Agnes, dau. of Roger Bertram, of Mitford, and was s. by his son, Sir William Fitzwilliam, who m. Agnes, dau. of Richard, Lord Grey, of Codnor, and had a son, Sir William Fitzwilliam, living 1 Edward III., who m. Maud, dau. of Edward, Lord D'Eyncourt, and was father of

Sir John Fitzwilliam, who founded in 1372 the chantry of St. Edward, in the church of Sprotburgh; and having m. Elizabeth, dau. of William, Lord Clinton, had three sons, the eldest of whom,

Sir John Fitzwilliam, who m. Eleanor, dau. of Sir Henry Green, of Drayton, and had six sons and a dau. The youngest son,

John Fitzwilliam, of Milton, and Green's Norton, in Northamptonshire, m. Eleanor, dau. of William Villiers, of Brokesby, co. Leicester, by whom he had three sons and two daus., and was s. by his eldest son,

Sir William Fitzwilliam, of Milton and Gainspark, Essex, and also of the city of London, of which he was sheriff in 1506, and subsequently alderman of Bread Street Ward. He had been for some time in the train of Cardinal Wolsey, and retiring afterwards to his house at Milton, there gave his old master, the cardinal, in the hour of his disgrace, a kind reception; for which conduct, being brought to task by King Henry, he replied that he had not acted in contemptuous disobedience of his highness's orders, but in gratitude to the fallen minister, who had been his master, and partly the founder of his good fortune; at which answer the king was so pleased, that he immediately knighted Mr. Fitzwilliam, and made him one of his privy council. Sir William m. 1st, Anne, dau. of Sir John Hawes, Knt. of the city of London, and had,

Sir William Fitzwilliam, b. at Milton, 1526, was lord deputy, and lord justice of Ireland, from 1560 to 1594. This eminent person is thus noticed by Fuller, in his Worthies of England:—Sir William Fitzwilliam was five times lord deputy of Ireland, a sufficient evidence of his honesty and ability, Queen ELIZABETH never trusting twice where she was once deceived in a minister of state. And she also preserved him in the power of his place, that, sending over Walter, Earl of Essex, to be governor of Ulster, the earl was ordered to take his commission from the lord deputy."
